U. S. Sends Ship For Corrigan

4 Die in 3d Day of Rain, Fog in N.E.

Two men drowned, a man and wife were killed, lightning struck a Dorchester house, planes were grounded and shipping hampered today, the third consecutive day of rain and fog in the northeast area.

Nor did the weather bureau give any encouragement that the gloomy conditions would improve before tomorrow, when fair weather is expected for the first time since Sunday.

FOG HANGS LOW

In the past 24 hours up to 9 a. m. .39 of an inch of rain had fallen in Boston, the bureau reported, making a total of 2.94

Douglas Corrigan shakes hands with his Dublin host, John Cudahy, U. S. minister to Ireland, as the Irish government returned the famous "flying jalopy" to the lad who spanned Atlantic "by mistake."

Non-Stop Corrigan's Life Story--Page 8

WASHINGTON, July 20 (AP).—The Maritime Commission plans to bring Douglas Corrigan and his $900 transatlantic flying "crate" back home on one of its ships—all free.

J. Monroe Johnson, acting Secretary of Commerce, disclosed this today. He said the steamship Lehigh, operated by the commission, would dock at Dublin and pick up the adventurous youth. The Lehigh is big enough to transport Corrigan's plane without dismantling.

Johnson, who has final say on what Corrigan's punishment will be for flying the Atlantic without a permit, declined to talk to reporters about penalties.

"The boy has made a hero of himself and we are tickled he got across," he said.

"We are not going to be guilty of chilling the exploit by talking about punishment."

He said nothing would be done until Corrigan's return July 29 and said he would confer with members of the new civil aeronautics authority before acting. The acting secretary laughed heartily over Corrigan's "flight to California by way of Ireland." He characterized the "mistake" as an "excellent Irish joke" and asserted it was impossible to believe that Corrigan did not know where he was going.

Cupid Chasing Doug in Dublin

DUBLIN, July 20—Douglas "Crazy Compass" Corrigan today awoke after a long sleep to discover that he had become the most eligible American bachelor.

Blushingly the red-headed aviator read cable after cable offering proposals of marriage from all sections of the United States that had piled up since his unannounced aerial arrival here but which, until now, he had no time to peruse.

Offers of movie contracts, too, dangling fat fees swamped the nonchalant flier but to both Cupid and Croesus Corrigan turned a cold shoulder.

"I'm not interested in money," he told American embassy attaches where he had spent the night, "I can get sufficient fun and satisfaction from life without it."

"My plane," he added, "is the only sweetheart I want for the present."

And the joy of the intrepid aviator was unbounded when he was informed by Prime Minister De Valera in person that he had given orders for release from customs of the motorized "crate" that had carried Corrigan safely over nearly 3000 miles of ocean waste.

As soon as he reached the Baldonnel airfield to take a look at the $900 monoplane, Corrigan's hands again began to itch to whirl the propeller and be off.

But the inflexible European aircraft regulations severely cramped Corrigan's style. He was courteously, if firmly, informed that any further gyping on the Continent was forbidden.

"I want to go places," pleaded the restless flier. "I want to fly to London and Paris. I'd like to circle the Eiffel Tower and have really something to talk about when I get home."

Someone on the Baldonnel field whispered in Corrigan's ear that occasionally the crowned heads of Europe issued "commands" for people to appear before them.

"Gosh!" ejaculated Corrigan, "I suppose I could get out of here in my ship if King George of England ordered me over to show him the plane—or something."

Although the plane was released by the government, it remained locked up in the Baldonnel hangar to preserve it from souvenir hunters.

The American legation official said Corrigan has been getting at least 20 pieces of mail every hour since late Monday.

'Day in London' and Then Doug Will Head for U. S.

CHICAGO, July 20 (AP)—Douglas (Non-Stop) Corrigan announced by transatlantic telephone today he'd leave Dublin, Ireland, "before I wear out this marvelous welcome."

The pilot who hopped off from New York the other day for California and somehow or other landed in Ireland instead talked with an Airlines representative.

"I want to spend a day in London," he said, "but then I'll come home—by boat."

He added: "They've been wonderful to me; I met the President, did the tennis matches, and everything."

The Airline, which has a contract with Corrigan to tour its system when he returns, arranged to bring Corrigan's brother, Harry, from a vacation spot in Nova Scotia to New York for Douglas' arrival.

DON'T DO IT AGAIN!

WASHINGTON, July 20 (INS)

The best minds in the Bureau of Air Commerce were set to work today composing a letter of "reprimand" to Mr. Douglas G. Corrigan.

Conceived more out of necessity than desire, the letter is being shaped for "punishment" in addition to the figurative slap on the wrist administered by Assistant Secretary of Commerce J. Monroe Johnson late yesterday, when he solemnly ordered Douglas's 9-year-old "crate" grounded.

The Bureau, it was explained, feels that something must be done to clip the wings of the breath-taking Douglas as well as his ship, lest others decide that they, too, can span the Atlantic endowed only with an old motor, some cheese cloth and baling wire.

However, Corrigan will not receive the letter until he has returned to these shores.

Officials of the air commerce bureau were frank to admit suspension of the experimental license for Corrigan's plane was simply a precaution against the young Irishman's attempting to fly back to the United States in it.

Corrigan Chats With Dr. Hyde

DUBLIN, July 20 (AP)—Ireland's new president honored America's new aviation hero today by receiving him in Dublin's imposing presidential palace.

Spick and span in new clothes, Douglas G. Corrigan drove from the United States legation to the palace. There 78-year-old President Douglas Hyde and the young Californian animatedly discussed the latter's flight from New York to Dublin.

'I Want My Baby, I Love My Baby'!

Mother's Plea For Her Child

"I want my baby because I love him!"

That was Mrs. Ruth Christian Whittier's answer today to reports that she feared her three-year-old son, Frederick G. Whittier, 3rd, might grow up to be a "playboy" if allowed to remain in custody of his paternal grandparents.

Poor Mama, Rich Dad

MRS. RUTH CHRISTIAN WHITTIER
Battles Wealthy Mate for Son

They are wealthy Mr. and Mrs. Frederick G. Whittier, Sr., of Ipswich.

Young and attractive Mrs. Ruth Whittier is seeking a divorce from their son, Frederick G. Whittier, 2nd.

She failed in an effort to obtain temporary custody of her child.

"I feel sure, however, the Baby Whittier court will give little Freddy back to me, when my divorce plea is heard," she said today.

"I'm not afraid grandparents won't take good care of him. I'm not afraid he won't grow up to be a fine young man."

"But I want my baby because I love him."

"I don't think any environment, no matter how luxurious, can be worth as much to a boy as his mother's loving care."

Young Mrs. Whittier, who was married at 16 and is now only 21, was staying with friends today in Beverly.

She said she was job-hunting.

"I worked to support my baby when he was little," she said. "I expect to be able to support him in the future."

The girl mother declined to comment directly on a quoted statement from her foster mother, Mrs. Florence Christian, who was reported as saying the Whittier child should be left with the senior Whittiers or put in joint custody of his maternal and paternal grandfathers.

"The question of who shall have little Freddy is a matter that only concerns my husband and me," Mrs. Ruth Whittier said.

NOT THEIR FIGHT

"No other relatives should have anything to do with it. It isn't their fight."

"I brought my divorce action against my husband because of a girl."

"But so far as my baby is concerned, he belongs to me and I believe the court will give him to me."

"I want him because I love him."

A Deb On a Job

LUCY SAUNDERS

NEWPORT, R. I., July 20—Being in the social register doesn't mean a girl doesn't have to work, so beautiful Lucy Saunders, one of four pretty sisters who walk with Newport's elite, has a job.

She works as a shop-girl in the Newport branch of a New York department store. The difficulty she encounters is that shoppers recognize her as the same girl they saw on Bailey's Beach frolicking among the socially-elect crowd.

For this reason they consider Lucy's business career a "gag."

"So I have to work doubly hard to impress the customers," she says. "But I love it."

married couple, disclosed today they have separated, with the lovely Joan adding a quick denial that she had another heart interest.

Confirming reports current in the motion picture colony for several months, the famous movie stars admitted their marriage of five years had crumbled but insisted there would be no immediate divorce.

Joan today found displeasing the hint that there might be romantic attachments on either side. "There isn't a day," declared the star, "that I am not accused of a romance with someone or other. Probably it will be the milkman or the iceman next."

Miss Crawford's marriage to Tone was her second. Her first husband was Douglas Fairbanks, Jr. It was Tone's first marriage.

"There isn't much we have in say," ventured Joan and Franchot. "We are sorry it had to happen, but we feel it is better for us both."

They insisted they had no idea when divorce would be considered.

Parting on friendly terms, Miss Crawford will remain in her Brentwood home.

Franchot Tone's intention to take an apartment, or it is possible he will lease a house.

It was well known in Hollywood that for a long time now Joan and Franchot have not been encountering calm weather on the ocean of matrimony.

Percy Can't Go

A candidate for the title of saddest dachshund in New England today was the former Anne Lindsay Clark's pedigreed pup, Percy.

He was alone and forsaken at Nahant, as his honeymooning mistress and her bridegroom, John Rossell, sailed from Montreal, Bermuda-bound, aboard the liner Lady Somers.

He felt that three oughtn't to be a crowd on a great big steamship like the Lady Somers.

He just wasn't invited. That was that!

Exile Lifted For Nicholas

BUCHAREST, July 20 (AP)—King Carol and his younger brother, Nicholas, reconciled temporarily by the death of their mother, the dowager Queen Marie, attended mass together today at Sinia.

Nicholas, shorn of his title and in exile since April 28, 1937, for marrying a commoner, was summoned by the King yesterday to attend the funeral. He was warned, however, that he must leave Rumania immediately after the ceremonies Sunday.

The two brothers dined together last night—the first meeting since Nicholas was exiled.

Hurley Asks For 10 Million

Following the program suggested by the Massachusetts Federation of Labor, Governor Hurley sent a special message to the legislature suggesting a $10,000,000 five-year highway fund bond issue for a road work-relief program, and the diversion of $5,500,000 from the highway fund for general state expenses.

This latter $5,500,000 diversion of motorists' gasoline taxes was recommended by the Federation of Labor on the ground it would reduce the state tax on real estate.

Opponents claimed, on the other hand, that it would cost the state $1,000,000 in federal aid.

The message suggests that unemployment relief through jobs made possible by an allocation of $5,000,000 to the Department of Public Works be governed by a commission of five, the members to serve at not more than $15 for each meeting attended.

One would be appointed by the speaker of the House; one by the president of the Senate, and three, including one representative of the Massachusetts Federation of Labor, by the governor.

Employment would be given only to applicants presenting certificates from this commission, and certifying their need of employment.

MESSAGE TO HOUSE

The governor's message to the legislature went automatically to the House ways and means committee. Members of the committee indicated they would ask the Senate ways and means committee to sit jointly with them to discuss it.

The objection that the proposed $5,500,000 diversion of money from the highway fund would cost the Commonwealth $1,000,000 was voiced by Representative Richard H. Stacy of Springfield, a member of the House ways and means committee.

Threatened by labor leaders is a "march on the State House" and mass demonstration on Boston Common, if the present deadlock between the governor and the legislature on unemployment relief appropriations is not broken.

STILL OPPOSED

Republican members of both House and Senate, however, still were reported bitterly opposed. They pointed out the present "labor" proposals closely parallel the governor's own previous recommendations, which the legislature refused to approve.

Of the $10,000,000 proposed bond issue, the proposal is to give $5,000,000 to cities and towns for local road work, and the other $5,000,000 to the State Department of Public Works for "purely state" projects.

Hurley Plea for Bond Issue Hit As 'Slush Fund'

Calling Governor Hurley's proposal "a slush fund," Norman MacDonald, executive director of the Massachusetts Federation of Taxpayers Associations, Inc., today branded the governor's suggestion for a $10,000,000 bond issue and diversion of $5,500,000 from the state highway fund a "hoax upon the working people of the State."

ALWAYS REJECTED

"If a bond issue of $10,000,000 or any other reasonable sum would relieve unemployment in Massachusetts," MacDonald declared, "neither the Massachusetts Federation of Taxpayers Associations nor any other taxpayers organization would oppose it. But a slush fund of any amount will always bring forth unflinching opposition, whatever its auspices."

"In one guise or another this same program has been before the legislature several times, and properly rejected. It must be rejected again, just as labor will reject the effort to deliver it on mass into the Hurley campaign without giving it a chance to decide whether or not it wants to be delivered."

MARKS DROPPED

"At least some masks have been dropped in the last few days, and the voters, whether organized into labor unions or taxpayers' associations, will not be deluded. They recognize the frantic last-minute efforts to get and to deliver votes."

MacDonald asserted that the proposal only would set unemployed persons to work "at pick and shovel labor instead of at the skilled jobs they want in their own trades."

O'Connell Adds To Primary Lead

HELENA, Mont., July 20 (INS)—Congressman Jerry O'Connell, who claimed support of the national administration, today was conceded renomination by his four opponents in yesterday's Democratic primary.

Returns from 243 of the 413 precincts gave O'Connell 15,793; Payne Templeton, backed by Senator Burton K. Wheeler and the state administration, 12,642; Ted Collins, Helena attorney, 3427; Maggie Smith Mathaway, 1423; Eugene Burris 571.

In the second district Congressman James F. O'Connor, also a New Deal candidate, was conceded renomination by his opponent, Herb Rolfe, speaker of the State House of Representatives, and candidate of the Farm-Labor group.

Three hundred and sixteen precincts out of 549 gave O'Connor 13,793; Rolfe 6837.

Earle Injured In Plane Crash

NEWTOWN SQUARE, Pa., July 20 (AP)—Governor George H. Earle was slightly injured today when his private plane, which he was piloting, struck a tree in a forced landing on the campus of Mills College.

He said after the accident that his left side, arm and leg felt sore and he would see a doctor.

Spread Net In Kidnaping

BATH, Me., July 20 (AP)—Warrants charging the kidnaping of two women were issued in Augusta today against Andrew F. Gallagher, 31, Bangor, and Alfred Labonte, 19, Lewiston, while police instituted a state-wide search for the two paroled convicts.

The warrants, issued by Municipal Judge Emory O. Beane, were signed by Mrs. Harriett Johnson of Mrs. Francis T. Berry, Gardis women, who declared they were lured, at gunpoint, into a stolen car in which the fugitives escaped yesterday amid a rain of police shots.

State Police Lieutenant John E. Lee, directing the hunt, accompanied the women to court. Gallagher and Labonte were former inmates of Maine State Prison. Conviction of kidnaping, under the law, carries a mandatory sentence of life imprisonment.

Maytag Strike Area Under Martial Law

NEWTON, Ia., July 29—Amid cheering from sleepless CIO adherents, state militia at dawn placed the Maytag Washing Machine strike area under martial law and suspended all civil authority.

The plant, in operation two days after being strike-bound ten weeks, immediately was ordered closed to production workers. Back-to-work movement members, some carrying lunch pails, were jeeringly chased from the factory doors.

At least six persons suffered serious injuries and between 20 and 30 others were beaten in street fights near the factory today.

The fighting broke out while 250 national guardsmen, who were ordered to the scene early today, were eating breakfast. Rushed into the strike zone, the guardsmen restored order.

The outbreak was the most serious in the labor controversy that began May 9 when CIO union employees of the company walked out in protest of a 10 per cent wage cut.

Women were among the crowd of about 400 persons who shouted, "Get that scab, get that scab," as fighting broke out.

Several times men singled out for attacks were grabbed, slugged, then pushed into the arms of police. One man at whom shouts of "scab" were directed was beaten and fell to the street.

ARGUED WITH WIFE

Berg killed himself, Detective Captain Rothengast said, by sending a 32 caliber bullet into his right temple in his office after a 12-hour argument with his wife, who had urged him "to tell everything."

Apparently his wife thought he was safe from self-harm, for she had stepped out of the room when the shot was fired.

Berg lay slumped across his desk when she ran in.

Captain Rothengast said she stumbled out of the room, crying to the office telephone operator: "COULDN'T FIND" GUN

"I thought you told me that he didn't have a revolver."

"I looked through the desk yesterday and couldn't find one," the operator was quoted by Rothengast as saying.

The evidence against Berg, Dewey's office said, was presented to the regular July grand jury last Wednesday. Because of Berg's death, however, the indictment will not be filed.

Berg left an autobiography and a note in newspapermen.

"I have been very sick for the past two years. I have been very good to you boys, so give me a break."

Franklin, 3d? New Roosevelt Needs a Name

PHILADELPHIA, July 29 (INS)

Congratulatory messages, including one from President Roosevelt, aboard the cruiser U. S. S. Houston, began pouring in today on Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., and his wife, the former Ethel duPont, following the birth of a seven-pound son in Pennsylvania Lying-in Hospital.

Both baby and mother were reported doing very well at the hospital today.

Interest in the new Roosevelt heir centered in what name would be given the President's eighth grandchild. Franklin, Jr., laughed off a suggestion that the child would be christened Franklin, 3d. Proud as a peacock, young Roosevelt himself announced the birth of the baby. Accompanied by his sister-in-law, Mrs. Almie duPont Wickes, he had dashed to the hospital from a movie just in time to be present for the arrival of his heir.

"To my prejudiced eye, it seems like the most beautiful baby in the world," he told reporters. "Ethel is doing fine. The baby's fine—and you can say I'm feeling fine."

Then he dispatched a wireless message to the President, now off the Pacific Coast on a fishing trip.

Men Battle Over Radio At Norfolk

A fight between prisoners over use of the radio in the dormitory of the Norfolk County farm at Walpole resulted in transfer of nine of the inmates back to cells in Dedham jail today.

The transfer was accomplished with all possible secrecy and county officials refused to explain the cause of the trouble or the reason for the disciplinary action taken.

Inquiry by Deputy Commissioner of Correction Frank A. Dwyer brought the main facts of the situation to light.

"There were 24 prisoners in the dormitory at the county farm and there was a row over some radio program," Dwyer said.

"As I understand it, some of the inmates wanted to sleep and others wanted to keep the radio going."

"There was a row and rules were broken. But the disturbance wasn't sufficient to require police assistance from the outside."

At Dedham jail today, county farm guards and the transferred inmates were questioned by county commissioners, who began an official investigation.

War Rained Out, So Guardsmen Rest at Bourne

BOURNE, July 20—"War" called on account of rain.

That was the situation here today.

Instead of the maneuvers that were to have engaged 8000 members of the Massachusetts militia in mimic warfare, the guardsmen spent the day indoors working paper problems.

The "war" will go on tomorrow if the weather clears, it was stated.

Plans for the maneuvers center around a "raid" on the camp by "enemy" airmen. Theoretically, the camp is to be strafed and bombed, while an advancing ground force attacks from the Bourne and Sagamore bridges.

Tactical problems include evacuation of the camp, defense against the air attack, and defense of the two bridge heads.

The delayed war game now will be carried through tomorrow and Friday, Saturday, the militiamen will break camp.

South End Art Theft Foiled

Foiling a daring attempt of art thieves to loot a Fayette street, South End, residence of its treasure of silver and paintings, police today arrested one man at gunpoint after a foot chase through Kerry Village streets.

Special service squad officers, led by Lieutenant Robert A. Lynch, raced to the scene on receiving a telephone call saying two men were tampering with the door of the home of George Levenski and Yury Nelidski, noted interior decorators.

Patrolmen Joseph McCleary and Nicholas Waters chased one of the burglars down Fayette and Melrose streets and cornered him in Carver street. His companion escaped.

The suspect gave a temporary Bowdoin street, West End, address.

4 Dead On 3d Day Of N. E. Rainstorm

inches for July—with the heavens still dripping.

In Vineyard Haven harbor, as the rain drove in the wind blew and fog hung low, Captain Rufus B. Porter of Marblehead and Seaman Calvin Welsh of Parrsboro, N. S., were drowned when their rowboat capsized.

A third man in the boat, Robert Smith, 21, of Parrsboro, clung to the overturned craft and was rescued by a New Bedford-bound steamer captained by J. O. Sandisbury.

The trio, according to Smith, was rowing from a yacht, captained by Porter, to the Parrsboro schooner Minna King, of whose crew Smith and Welsh were members.

In Dorchester, only one bolt of lightning lit the murk during the storm, but this bolt struck a three-family house in Hancock street and severely jarred Police Station 11 at Fields Corner, two miles away, rocking typewriters and furniture.

The bolt struck the cupola atop the house, tore through a ceiling, ripped through a wall to the outside and grounded.

The house is occupied by the families of Oscar Cozzo and Henry Fraser.

TREE RIPPED

In Arlington, a heavy tree limb was ripped down and fell across Elevated trolley wires in Massachusetts avenue, near Melrose street.

Johnson in Race For State Post

Former Judge Kenneth D. Johnson of Boston and Milton, well known for his juvenile welfare work, today announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for lieutenant-governor.

He resigned from the bench last January. He is a graduate of Brown University and Harvard law school.

A tug, loaded with provisions, fruit, vegetables, fish, milk and bread, was sent down to the steamer Ekcalibur, inbound from Mediterranean ports with 3 passengers, but anchored since Monday night because of the fog.

TUG GROUNDED

In Nantucket harbor, a coal barge towed by the tug Melrose and due tomorrow at Boston from Norfolk, Va., went aground but was refloated at high water, making Coast Guard aid unnecessary.

Only four vessels were able to dock through the fog and storm today.

They were the Evangeline, from Yarmouth, N. S., and the Boston, from New York, both arriving nearly on schedule; and the steamers Juanita, from Norfolk, and Kent, from Philadelphia.

The Boston Evening American's Nicked Day at Revere Beach was postponed until tomorrow because of the downpour; tonight's Esplanade concert was put over by Arthur Fielder and a Cape Cod Canal cruise scheduled by the Nantasket Steamboat Company was shifted to tomorrow.

$20,000 Fight Over He--She

At least $20,000 will be involved in the will fight which has led to a controversy over whether "Marshall W. Hoyt," who lived for 10 years in Natick as the husband of the former Mrs. Grace Himebaugh, was man or woman.

This was disclosed today by Attorney Alfred R. Shrigley, former assistant attorney general and counsel here for Mexico and Panama, who is counsel for Mrs. Himebaugh, or Mrs. Hoyt, now being sought in Maine.

COUNSEL MAPS MOVES

The next move in the case, Shrigley said, will either be offering of the "mystery-man's" will for probate or filing of a petition asking for appointment of an administrator.

"I saw Mr. and Mrs. Hoyt for many years," Shrigley told the Boston Evening American today. "I represented Mr. Hoyt in cases. Of course, it never entered my head that he was not a man. He used to swear, drink and smoke. He had a terrible temper. I saw him last about a year ago."

Meanwhile investigating authorities sought Mrs. Himebaugh, mother or two children, who is vacationing in Maine, to have her state whether the deceased was man or woman.

A death certificate, filed in Natick town hall, describes Hoyt as a male. Neighbors of his in Southport, Ct., who knew him before he moved to Natick, assert "he" really was Miss Georgianna White, known to have been addicted to wearing male attire.

The fantastic story of the alleged masquerade of Miss Wilson as Mrs. Himebaugh's husband and stepfather to her two daughters, was revealed in Middlesex probate court when relatives of the deceased notified Middlesex probate court they would contest allowance of his will.

Baltimore Tube Dynamite Blast Kills 10

BALTIMORE, July 20 (AP)—A premature explosion of 450 pounds of dynamite killed ten members of a crew of 18 workmen blasting a water tunnel through solid rock 200 feet below the surface near the city pumping station today.

The explosion occurred shortly before the night shift was to have left the tunnel. Officials said the charge must have been set off by accident before the men, members of the mining crew, reached points of safety.

The tunnel is a PWA job and will form part of the municipal water system.

Lawyer Challenges Power of NLRB

WASHINGTON, July 20 (AP)—Clyde A. Armstrong, chief attorney for the Weirton Steel Company, challenged through counsel today the power of the labor relations board to discipline lawyers who practice before it.

Earl F. Reed of Pittsburgh, arguing Armstrong's appeal on his expulsion from a board hearing, maintained that the agency had no authority to punish the lawyer for contempt.

Carney Nurses' Outing Sunday

Rain or shine, members of the Nurse's Association will leave by bus from the Carney Hospital to enjoy their outing at Canobie Lake, Salem, New Hampshire, Sunday.

Included in the committee are Gerda Rosenkilde, chairman; Mary E. Foley, Katherine E. Hennessey, Marguerite Cronin, Marion Wilkinson, Mary MacGillivray, Anna Henry and Hilda Blanchett.

Sh! Here Comes Prosperity

WASHINGTON, July 20 (INS)—A sharp business upturn, with comparable re-employment and stock market rises, will get under way in September and be maintained throughout the winter and the spring of 1933, government statistical experts predicted today.

They based this conclusion on their estimates of full effect of the public works, slum-clearance and agricultural adjustment aides of President Roosevelt's $3,755,000,000 recovery drive for 1933. They believe this will be felt sometime during September.

These experts computed down to the dollar the effect of the last PWA program on business.

The undertone in Washington is that "this drive will put America back on a prosperity footing" and there will be no mid-season slump.

Chief observation behind this reasoning is that for this recovery drive most of the spending is being done by local communities, not by federal bureaus.

This is true of the PWA program, since Administrator Harold Ickes is now handing out federal grants of only 45 per cent of construction costs, while municipalities raise the other 55 per cent through loans of one sort or another. Thus PWA will cost $750,000,000 in non-federal grants, $200,000,000 in federal grants, or $950,000,000 total, against $400,000,000 in PWA loans to municipalities, which garner 4 per cent interest, or $16,000,000.

But the PWA program, like that of the United States Housing Authority and the AAA, is still in the early stages. Actual construction will not get under way until the first of the year. However, orders for materials will start in September and continue through the winter.

U. S. Embassy Hit By Spain Shells

MADRID, July 20 (AP)—The United States embassy building here was hit by four shells early today when insurgent artillery bombarded the city. Some damage was caused but no one in the embassy building was hurt. The embassy has not been occupied by diplomatic officers since early in the war.

Corrigan's Start Made by Truck

Studied Planes On Lunch Hour

(Editor's Note—Following is the second of a series of International News Service articles on the interesting, but hitherto little known, life of Douglas Corrigan, the amazing aviator who flew the Atlantic "by mistake.")

By RALPH B. JORDAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent
(Copyright, 1938)

LOS ANGELES, July 20 —The Irish fairies must have whispered into his ears the night Douglas Corrigan was born.

Because the young flying mechanic, the brave broth' o' lad who hopped off from New York in a $900 museum piece that he called an airplane, bound for Los Angeles, and landed in Ireland "by mistake," was born in the midst of a severe winter.

Siberia Won't See Corrigan

CHICAGO, July 20 (AP). —With new reason to be proud of their name, the Corrigans of Chicago today organized "the first chapter of the Honorable Society of Corrigans" and it wasn't hard to guess whom they chose as honorary president. Fire Marshal Michael J. Corrigan bestowed the title by wireless on Douglas P. Corrigan, who flew his $900 "crate" to Ireland. "We hereby invite you to partake of the largest dish of corned beef hash ever assembled," Marshal Corrigan messaged. "Under separate cover we have sent you an air map showing you the route from New York to Chicago, so you will not head for our fair city and end up in Omsk, Siberia."

And, as everybody knows, the Irish fairies just love the bitter cold of winter, the happier they are to kiss warm the fingers of winter's children.

Douglas was born in the bustling city of Galveston, Texas, along the Gulf of Mexico, on January 22, 1907.

PERFECT SETTING

A chilling north wind swept in from the bay, and the Irish fairies were delighted to note that their favorite had found his way into the midst of a family of moderate circumstances. The setting was perfect, the fairies would make this infant a child of fortune.

And this they did. Mrs. Evelyn Corrigan, whose husband, Clyde, was a construction engineer, was very happy there in her warm hospital room. What mattered the winds of winter that whistled outside her window? Her baby was blue-eyed and had blond hair—hair that was fuzzy, and just seemed to invite the mother fingers to linger there on top of the infant head.

The Irish fairies did a dance in that hospital room. It was in Galveston that the aviation hero of the future learned to toddle, and then learned to walk, and then romped and played in the way of a healthy boy. The Corrigans moved to California in 1913.

TYPICAL YOUTH

Douglas entered the public school and began the task of acquiring an education that was to find him considerably wifing every means of improving his alert, questioning mind.

He was to grow into a typical American youth—but he was born

Early Days Of Career Told on going somewhere. And somewhere he has gone.

In the meantime his father's work as an engineer took him from home, and for long stretches of time the elder Corrigan would be away from the fireside that he loved.

Then in 1922, a great sorrow came to the family.

The father met death in New York—under the wheels of a switch engine. Friends described him as a patient, hard-working, friendly, likable man.

The widow, grief-stricken, never ceased to mourn. She carried on bravely, for the sake of her children, but she did not fully recover from the shock of a tragedy that had cast a long shadow over the house of Corrigan.

She was constantly ill and four years after her husband's untimely end, she died. Douglas and his sister and brother, Evelyn and Harry, were left orphans.

It was shortly after Mrs. Corrigan's death that the two brothers and sister took up their residence with their aunt and uncle, the Rev. and Mrs. Fraser Langford in Los Angeles.

HAPPY REFUGE

They found there a happy refuge. Today the name of Corrigan is graven on the tablets of aviation history besides the other fliers before him who had spanned the Atlantic in solo flight.

As a youngster he carried newspapers, fixed gadgets on his bicycle, and kept himself posted on modern developments, especially in aviation.

Later he drove a delivery truck. He worked in shops. He did a thousand-and-one things. He was thoroughly an American youth.

And while he was so active along so many lines, he also was broadening his knowledge of current trends and developments in the public library.

START FROM TRUCK

It was a delivery truck that landed Douglas into a flying career.

He was working for a contractor, hauling building materials to a real estate development. Nearby was a landing field—an interesting and a very inviting landing field. It was the youth's habit to drive over to the airport to eat his noon lunch.

It was while he watched planes roar into the air or swoop down from the sky, that he decided driving a truck was altogether too prosaic.

Nothing less than flying a plane would suit him.

Tomorrow's installment will tell of the start of Corrigan's incredible flying career.)

Now Blush, Doug!

LOS ANGELES, July 20 (INS).—Fame is nothing new for Douglas Corrigan. It was revealed today by his uncle, the Rev. S. Fraser Langford.

He once won a baby contest! "He is witty, shy and of a very pleasing personality. Why, when he was a baby he won a baby contest in Galveston, Tex. He won it for beauty, mind you, beauty," the uncle said.

Defiant Soviet Aids 'Invasion' Of Manchukuo

TOKYO, July 20 (INS)—Soviet Russia, in defiance of repeated Japanese protests, is reinforcing the garrison which "invaded" Manchukuo and occupied a mountain two miles across the frontier, newspaper dispatches said today.

Two divisions of Soviet troops—totaling about 60,000—have been landed at Novokievsk, in extreme southeastern Siberia. It was asserted by the newspaper Asahi in a dispatch from Seoul, Korea.

Instead of recalling the soldiers, who started building defenses on Chongkiling hill, the Soviets allegedly have sent more troops into the neighboring country.

One unconfirmed account said Soviet submarines were standing by in Amur Bay, and three Soviet airplanes made flights over the Manchukuoan border.

Mamoru Shigemitsu, the Japanese ambassador in Moscow, has been instructed to repeat his protest.

"Whether the situation (growing out of the alleged Soviet occupation of a strategically located mountain within Manchukuo) becomes serious depends entirely on Moscow," said a foreign office spokesman.

2 Finnish Vessels Seized by Russia

HELSINKI, Finland, July 20 (AP)—Two Finnish vessels were seized by Russian authorities today off Eckerö island in the Gulf of Finland, presumably on the grounds the ships entered Soviet waters.

The Finnish government started an investigation immediately. The vessels were the 240-ton survey ship Aristo and a coast guard sloop.

A Couple of Knocks---

BROCKTON, July 20—Give a man a pipe he can smoke, give a man a pick he can swing—in either case you have a man at peace with the world.

It was this universal male philosophy which building superintendent William G. Green believes impelled a group of WPA workers, implemented with wrecking tools, but lacking a supervisor, to demolish the wrong building at Montello and Lawrence streets.

Green has curbed all such spontaneous pick-swinging in the future by locking up tools until a supervisor familiar with Brockton buildings has been appointed by WPA authorities.

Paris Group Has Parley On Czechs

PARIS, July 20 (AP)—British and French statesmen took time out from the formal ceremonies of King George's state visit today for diplomatic discussions said to include a plan by Chancellor Hitler for solution of the Czechoslovak problem.

The statesmen, including Premier Daladier, Foreign Minister Bonnet and British Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax, went into conference at the foreign office immediately after luncheon.

Hitler's plan on the Czechoslovak minority problem was said to have been brought to Paris by Halifax.

King George and Queen Elizabeth, meanwhile, spent the day in a busy round of ceremonies.

Bolivia Approves Paraguay Treaty

BUENOS AIRES, July 20 (AP)—The governments of Bolivia and Paraguay today formally approved a treaty initiated by their foreign ministers July 9 submitting their century-old dispute over the Grand Chaco to arbitration by six neutral nations.

The agreement was reached after three years of efforts to end quarrels over the almost worthless territory. The treaty will be signed tomorrow.

Coughlin Takes Over City Post

Joseph F. Coughlin of West Roxbury today took over his duties as sealer of weights and measures for the city of Boston following his appointment by Mayor Tobin in the place of the late sealer, James A. Sweeney.

Coughlin has been deputy sealer for some time. His appointment is subject to a civil service examination for which all members of the department are eligible.

NOTHING EXCEEDS LIKE SUCCESS!

... Especially in Newspaper Popularity

On April 25, the Daily Record and Evening American were combined, as one advertising unit, to form Boston's dominating daily newspaper market.

Now, this growing market has reached an average of 191,878, for the three-month period ending June 30!

For you who want statistics—the Record-American alone reaches 78% more families than the 4th major Boston daily newspaper. The 2nd, 3rd, and 4th papers were then the 3rd, 4th, and 5th papers. The Record-American now covers more than 13% of the Boston newspaper market—the 4th major paper only 1%—the 3rd, 2%—the 2nd, 24%.

Families make markets. Markets make sales. Sales make jobs—and more sales—and profits. Profits make dividends for stockholders of Boston stores. In the process of logical business mathematics, Boston stores will make plans to go after the business of the close-to-half-million acquisitive, ambitious families that make the Record-American Boston's best advertising investment.

Jellied Dishes Hot Weather Favorites

FROM MARTHA LEE WILKES
RAY BROWN'S OVEN STATION WMAZ—11:30 A. M.

We heard a young lady remark the other day that she never cooked through because they were so hot and thick, summer dishes. "That's exactly it," she said, "I never cook them." A good reason for this is that the heat of the oven is so intense that the food is cooked through before it is done. This is why we have to cook them in a water bath.

It is not only the heat of the oven but the heat of the food itself. When we cook a dish in a water bath, the heat is distributed evenly and the food is cooked through without becoming dry or overcooked. This is why we have to cook them in a water bath.

PRESCRIPTION FOR WARM WEATHER APPETITES

For warm weather appetites, a prescription is needed. The first part of the prescription is to cook the food in a water bath. The second part is to serve the food in a cool, airy room.

The third part is to serve the food in a cool, airy room. The fourth part is to serve the food in a cool, airy room. The fifth part is to serve the food in a cool, airy room.

There are a few simple rules for the summer dinner in paper.

JELLIED HAM LOAF

1. Slice ham into thin slices.
2. Slice ham into thin slices.
3. Slice ham into thin slices.

Soak the gelatin in water for 10 minutes. Then add the ham slices. Cook in a water bath for 1 hour. Serve in a cool, airy room.

MUSHROOM AND TUNA FISH SUPPER

Cobweb Kerchiefs

THEY'RE back on the fashion scene—staccato accents of chiffon for evening costumes, hailing back to the time when no stage lovely would consider a dramatic scene without a yard of contrasting chiffon dripping from her fingers! Today they're somewhat smaller, and often carry a decorative motif all their own, like this one by Burmel, with petit point flowers a "different" touch. Other individually designed bankie fashions by Burmel are featured in Boston shops. For shopping information, phone Annie Brink, Fashion Editor, Liberty 4000, weekdays until five, or write her at the Boston American.

Peasant Aprons Cheery Looking

Peasant aprons, they say, do beautify this quickly made apron. It contains a 10-inch x 10-inch motif 8 1/2 x 8 1/2 inches.

Soak the gelatin in water for 10 minutes. Then add the apron slices. Cook in a water bath for 1 hour. Serve in a cool, airy room.

OPENING FOR GENIUS

Some day a great genius will come along and discover a way to reduce the number of pieces in which a man can mislay his hat, lose the tickets and hide things from himself.

Entertain With Clever Fortunes

Let it be said that a good high spirit is a good thing. It should be the corner that Ave. Clubs says.

Just because a girl needs a text for her fortune, it doesn't mean that she is a fortune teller. It is just a game to play at parties and fortune tellers.

Another clever fortune teller, Desert Sage, can give you the fortune teller's name.

Other lively ways to tell fortunes are given in our 40-page book. LET ME TELL YOUR FORTUNE. Send for our booklet, LET ME TELL YOUR FORTUNE, to Boston Evening American, House Institute, 109 West 19th Street, New York, N. Y. Write your name and address.

MR. BOSTON

"Whitey" Moore Is { Reds' Star Walks
Pitching "Find" In His Sleep

By JACK CONWAY

NOW ALONG comes "Whitey" Moore of the Reds and holds the Bees to two hits. Moore didn't allow a single hit for seven and two-thirds innings.

Mr. Boston

Moore's pitching feat has got the fans wondering whether Bill McKechnie possesses some magic that enables him to develop great flingers, or whether it was due to the fact the Bees lack hitting power.

When Dizzy Dean turned in his four-hit game against the Bees, some shrewd baseball fans refused to accept it as proof of the fact the Cubs pitcher has regained his old form. They contend the Bees are a poor hitting ball club, and that even a fair pitcher looks good when working against them.

McKechnie has always been able to get the best there is out of a pitcher. Bill was particularly successful with his hurlers when he managed the Bees, and had much to do with the pitching successes of Jim Turner and Lou Fette.

McKechnie was a powerful factor in developing Johnny Vander Meer into one of the crack pitchers of the National League. McKechnie insisted Vander Meer put everything he had behind each pitch, and not worry about getting the ball over the plate.

McKechnie argued that if a pitcher started off with a mental hazard about getting the ball across the plate that he was certain to become wild. Vander Meer followed McKechnie instructions and has become very successful.

"Whitey" Moore Walks in His Sleep

MOORE IS more than a pitching problem to McKechnie. "Whitey" walks in his sleep, and when he is sleeping high up in a hotel it is necessary to take precautions to see that he doesn't step out a window.

When traveling by Pullman, Moore will often go wandering down the aisle of the train while asleep.

McKechnie may decide to put a child's play horse harness on Moore when he retires for the night, and attach the reins to the post of his bed or to a hook in a Pullman berth. This is a common method used by nurses who have persons in their care who are subject to walking in their sleep.

If Moore can continue to pitch two-hit games, he may sleep so soundly that he will forget to do any walking while asleep. "Whitey" should content himself with putting opposing batters to sleep.

Moore, like Vander Meer, has had his difficulties mastering control. When in the South last spring, Moore bounced an agate off Mel Almada's head in an exhibition game. Almada was knocked cold, but recovered from the blow without any serious effects. Mel is doing all right for both the Browns and for himself.

McKechnie Knows Batters' Weaknesses

THERE IS probably not a manager in either league who knows the weaknesses of opposing batters as well as McKechnie. Bill has a special service that furnishes him with newspapers carrying the play-by-play stories of ball games. This enables McKechnie to get the last minute information as to just where rival players are placing their hits.

When McKechnie arrives in a city with his Reds, he knows just what players are hitting, and to which fields they are driving their blows. He then instructs his pitchers what balls to throw to the different batters.

When Bill was with the Bees he called every pitch in crucial parts of games. And his judgment usually proved correct.

National League Pitchers Make Gains

NATIONAL LEAGUE pitchers have made decided gains over their American League rivals this year. National League managers have been devoting more attention to developing first class flingers, and their efforts have been rewarded with success.

The American League has the better hitters, and there has been a tendency to concentrate on long distance clouting. I believe this condition dates back to the carefree days when Babe Ruth was setting home run records.

When Ruth was paid $80,000 a year, ball players concluded that the best way to get into the big money was to devote their attention to batting. The club owners furnished a lively ball to help along the good cause.

There have been numerous cases where batters trying to get away from a pitch have accidentally hit the ball, and the ball has gone to left or right fields for a double. The lively ball rather than the batter should get credit for such hits.

THEY ARE taking the bathhouse and hippodrome out of racing down at Narragansett Park. Some time ago, Judge "Jim" Dooley announced that there would be no spectacular promotion of name horse races at the Pawtucket strip. Some of the wise ones thought the judge had his tongue in his cheek when he made that statement. Until yesterday when (Gansett) announced the entry of Seabiscuit in the Narragansett Special, $25,000 added stake, in just a few words. Neither old Stagehand, The Chief, Fighting Fox, Bull Lea, Crowat, Bony K, or War Minstrel receive any superlatives.

The Gansett publicity department simply said that these stars had been nominated—only that and nothing more. Looks like the judge meant what he said when he turned thumbs down on extravagant bathhouses.

Mat Bout Delay Aids Dick Shikat

Postponement of their world heavyweight wrestling championship match at Fenway Park until tomorrow night sent Steve (Crusher) Casey, the titleholder, and Richard Shikat, German challenger, back to their respective gymnasiums.

Casey went through a sizzling workout at Kelley and Hayes gymnasium yesterday. He will do limbering up exercises, but no hard work, there today, Jack Albright, his manager, declares.

"Naturally, Steve was disappointed at the postponement as he wants to get this match over with," Albright said. "However, he will be in just as fine condition, if not finer tomorrow night. He will do just enough work today to keep him from growing stiff."

Casey carried a scowl all through the drill, proof that the postponement didn't sit any too well with him.

Hans Steinke

Shikat wrestled 40 minutes with John Podubny, his training mate, and he appeared in perfect condition. He'll be back in the gymnasium today with Podubny. "The postponement helps me and hurts Casey," Shikat said. "I have been in the game longer and am more accustomed to disappointments. On the other hand, Casey is a nervous, high-strung fellow, and he'll probably spend the extra two days thinking about our match and see me in his sleep. I figure this postponement positively cinched victory for me."

Pietro Gombo, Italian heavyweight beaten only by Shikat since he came to America, will meet giant Hans Steinke in a preliminary tomorrow night. Otherwise, the supporting card will remain the same as was lined up for last night.

Fette on Hill In Night Game

CINCINNATI, O., July 18.—Perhaps the moonlight will do it. At any rate, if the Bees' luck doesn't change shortly, they'll be in danger of dropping into the cellar.

Now in sixth place after losing seven straight games, the Bees will send Lou Fette against Johnny Vander Meer as the series with the Reds is concluded tonight.

The Tuesday doubleheader went the same way as all the games in the recent series with the Cubs. The Bees got only two hits off Whitey Moore in the first game as they lost 3 to 1, and only eight in the second as they lost 7 to 2. Well, the moonlight may change things.

Finland Receives Olympics Officially

HELSINKI, July 20 (AP).—The 1940 Olympic games, relinquished by Japan last week, have been awarded officially to Finland. Helsinki was named host city.

The invitation was issued by Count Henri de Baillet-Latour of Belgium, president of the International Olympic Committee, after he received an official notification from the Japanese ambassador at Brussels of Japan's decision not to stage the games.

$500 Keeps Ace From Red Sox

By the Associated Press

Bill Daley, manager of Maurice Strickland, the Australian heavyweight, is in Toronto to complete arrangements for the September 2 scrap with Tommy Farr. Two weeks ago we chronicled Burgess Whitehead had just finished playing four ball games (including a double header) and was set to join the Giants soon. Now comes word it will be at least two years before Burgess gets back into big league tops.

It wasn't the matter of a $500 bonus that kept Bill Broome, the Lockhart, S. C., pitching sensation, out of the Red Sox fold, was it? Here it is July 29 and the Cleveland sport writers have not been after Oscar Vitt's scalp. If that isn't a record you can sue us. Feller is just another fellow on the bench of the Cleveland Indians. Vitt has the whole team hustling and that's what counts.

The Injuns may not win the pen-

Detroit Bids For Olympic Games

DETROIT, July 20 (AP)—Combined forces of sportsmen, civic promotional groups and business interests got behind a move today to push Detroit in on the ground floor among bidders for Olympic games.

The motor capital, ready and willing to go to bat against the British Empire and Premier Mussolini in competition for the games, formally entered its invitation to the 1944 Olympiad, or 1948 as second choice.

For at least two years Detroit has mused over applying for the Olympic prize, and recently the dream developed some tangible connections, culminated by Mayor Richard Head's formal application, for the games.

RAISE $2,500,000

Already leaders of an "Olympics-for-Detroit" group are deep in plans for raising a nest egg of $2,500,000, the sum deemed necessary to finance the venture.

What with Michigan's lakes, a northern zone fit for winter games, and numerous stadiums available, the enumeration of Detroit's attractions is virtually ready-made, backers said.

Sponsors of the city's bid, made by Mayor Reading to the Olympic International body in Lausanne, Switzerland, and the American Olympic Association at Chicago, pointed out the availability of the University of Michigan stadium at Ann Arbor, and Briggs stadium and the University of Detroit stadium in Detroit.

BRUNDAGE LIKES DETROIT

In addition, Frederick C. Matthaei, Detroit industrialist, elected permanent chairman of the Detroit Olympiad committee, was instructed to set up a finance committee to raise $2,500,000 as well as a legal group to frame a Detroit Olympic games commission with power to condemn property for a stadium site other than the three mentioned.

Matthaei said that Avery Brundage, president of the A. O. U. and member of the international Olympic committee, called Detroit the best site in America for the olympics.

DODGERS GET HURLER

COLUMBUS, O., July 20 (AP)—The Columbus Red Birds baseball club has announced that Pitcher John Chambers had been obtained by Brooklyn via waivers. Chambers, a right hander, has won two and lost five games for the American Association champs this year.

Marvin Stahl Latest Find In Pro Ranks

NEW YORK, July 20 (AP)—Now that Walter Hagen practically has withdrawn from tournament golf and Gene Sarazen is teetering on the brink of retirement, the seeker for fresh talent in the professional golfing ranks could do worse than take a good look at 28-year-old Marvin Stahl of Lansing, Mich.

In addition to a good-looking, well-built youngster with a grin as big as a bunker, he would find a lad with the game, the personality and the temperament to go far in a profession where all three are essential.

Stahl got votes of confidence on all counts from competitors and sideline watchers in the P. G. A. championship at Shawnee, nor did his roots back down when he was eliminated in the third round.

One of Marvin's chief supporters is Dick Metz, the Chicagoan who was runner-up to Ralph Guldahl in the U. S. open at Denver and put out Guldahl in the second round of the P. G. A. Dick credited Stahl with as well-grooved a swing as any in the business.

Just an average hitter of the tees, despite a pair of shoulders that would be the envy of a full-back, Stahl picks up most of his strokes near and on the greens. His recoveries, approaches, and putting were the shots that enabled him to post a 138, six under par, in the P. G. A. qualifying round. For their soundness, he gives credit to Maurie Wells, veteran Grand Rapids, Mich., pro under whom he broke in as an assistant twelve years ago.

As to his personality, there is one bit of evidence that tells the story. After his defeat by Foulis, Stahl made a special trip to the press room to thank the golf writers for having treated him so nicely.

The golf writers, more accustomed to pros who take praise as their rightful due and speak up only when they're criticized, were left speechless.

CHICAGO, July 20 (INS)—Buddy Knox, Dayton, O., heavyweight, tonight will meet Al McCoy of Boston in a 10-round bout here. Knox will gain his 16th consecutive victory if he takes McCoy's measure. McCoy is rated among the 10 top heavies.

Bob Quinn— Take Notice

PHILADELPHIA, July 20 (AP)—Thirteen-year-old Arthur "Bud" Potts bids fair to rival the pitching feats of Johnny Vander Meer, The grammar school lad tossed his second no-hit, no-run game in succession. In 21 innings he has allowed only three hits, all in the first tilt.

By the Associated Press
HANK LEIBER, Giants—Drove in five runs, including tying and winning tallies, with homer, double and single as Giants nipped Cards, 7-6.

MEL HARDER, Indians—Gave six hits and fanned seven in turning back Yankees, 5-3.

WHITEY MOORE and ERNIE LOMBARDI, Reds—Moore pitched two-hitter to stop Bees in opener, 3-1; Lombardi's four-bagger and single led way to 7-2 Cincinnati victory in nightcap.

RICK FERRELL, Senators—His tenth-inning double brought in run that beat Tigers, 4-3.

ARKEY VAUGHAN and ED BRANDT, Pirates—Vaughan clouted two triples and single, while Brandt hurled five-hit ball, combination beating Phillies, 5-0.

VITO TAMULIS, Dodgers—Led down Cubs with eight hits and helped win own game, 8-3, by sending three runs across plate with a pair of singles.

Dugan Longs For Diamond

NEW YORK, July 20 (INS)—The nearest thing to a duck out of water apparently is a baseball player out of baseball. That's the impression Jumping Joe Dugan, New York Yankee third baseman in the old days of murderers' row gives today, if tapped on the subject of the horsehide pastime.

"I'd give anything in the world to get back into baseball," Dugan said in the Manhattan tavern which he owns, silver-haired now, quit the game after a short stay with Detroit in 1931. "I wasn't fitted for any other job," he said.

Joe has hopes of getting back as a coach if his old friend of Yankee days, Babe Ruth, becomes manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers. Dugan explained that Ruth once agreed to bring him to the Braves as coach if the Bambino became pilot there as he was expected to do several seasons back.

Jumping Joe thinks the present Yankees are a good enough ball club to win the pennant, but doesn't believe they'd be able to lick the 1927 team that swept through the Pittsburgh Pirates for four straight in the World Series. He said it topped every Yankee team he was on.

Dugan advised giving Joe DiMaggio some more time before labeling him a "Babe Ruth."

Both men held places on the Little All American football team selected by the Associated Press last fall.

Manleys Battle Over Baby Girl

Both socially prominent, Dr. Frederic N. Manley, chief physician at the Fore River shipbuilding plant, and his wife, Theodora, were in Dedham probate court today, opening a battle over custody of their two-year-old daughter, Nancy.

Less than a week ago, Dr. Manley filed a suit for divorce in the same court, alleging cruelty against Mrs. Manley, former president of the Quincy branch of the Florence Crittenton League. They were married November 2, 1934. She was a nurse at Quincy Hospital, where Dr. Manley then was an interne.

Near the close hour moderate losses and gains were well-scrambled throughout the list.

FLYING SANTA SAVES 7 LIVES

State Senator, Facing Dewey Quiz, Kills Self

NEW YORK, July 20—A state senator—Julius S. Berg—shot himself to death today, throwing the spotlight more directly than ever upon District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey's sweeping investigation of "rackets" in New York city.

Faced with a subpoena from Dewey calling upon him to undergo questioning, Senator Berg, a Democrat from the Bronx, shot himself in the head at his Broadway law office this morning.

ASKS "LAST BREAK"

Berg killed himself a short time before Dewey's office announced he had been indicted on charges of receiving money for his aid in procuring liquor licenses and arranging for concessions at the World's Fair.

The indictment, secretly returned against Berg, contained 17 counts. None related to the investigation Dewey is conducting into charges that certain legislators were recipients of sums of

Hero Ace—Captain

"Bill" Wincapaw, known as Winthrop's "Flying Santa Claus," today saved the lives of seven passengers by making a heroic landing of blazing seaplane at Tolchester, Beach, Md.

IN FIERY PLANE

Captain "Bill" Wincapaw, of Winthrop, New England's "Flying Santa Claus," heroically landed a blazing seaplane with seven passengers aboard at Tolchester Beach, Md., dispatches disclosed today.

Only one passenger, J. W. Spilsoer, 35, of Baltimore, was injured. He was badly burned.

The passengers were sightseers whom Wincapaw was taking up for short flights over Tolchester Beach, a popular Maryland resort.

Suddenly, as he was turning for a landing, the motor of Wincapaw's plane burst into flames, SANTA SCORCHED Spilsoer, sitting beside Wincapaw, was burned as the flames whipped back into the cockpit. Wincapaw likewise was scorched, but not seriously.

With his plane-load of screaming, terrified passengers, Wincapaw never lost his head. He brought the ship down to the surface of the water in a perfect landing.

Hundreds of spectators had sighted the blazing ship, and a score of boats and dozens of swimmers went to its aid.

TRIPS A TRADITION

Wincapaw is the "Flying Santa Claus" whose annual airplane trips with letters and gifts for the men in black outlying New England lighthouses and coast guard stations have become a tradition.

McHale Flies to Aid Kitty

Jimmy McHale, former orchestra leader at a Boston night club, will fly here from Columbus, O., to testify tomorrow in Brookline court in defense of Mrs. Kitty Brando, former night club hostess, it was announced today.

Accused of misconduct with McHale, she was brought to trial on a morals charge. Early evidence in the trial was heard last week, then the case was continued.

When Mrs. Brando's trial opened,

MRS. KITTY BRANDO

McHale's whereabouts was reported unknown. His intended presence in court tomorrow was revealed by Attorney J. Paul Keefe, counsel for Mrs. Brando.

"I talked by telephone with McHale," Keefe said. "Jimmy promised he'd leave Columbus by airplane today and be here sure tomorrow to take the witness stand in Kitty Brando's defense."

The bringing of the morals charge against Mrs. Brando followed her action in having her husband, night club proprietor Anthony Brando, arrested on an assault and battery complaint. She is seeking a divorce, charging cruelty.
